Notice about Harvard University South Asia Institute's Fellowship opportunities for the academic year 2015-2016

Here is a brief introduction to the Harvard University South Asia Institute (SAI)

Headquartered at Harvard Cambridge, SAI is an interfaculty, cross-discipline research center that seeks to engage students and faculty through interdisciplinary programs that advance and deepen the teaching and research on global issues relevant to South Asia. We strive to create a reciprocal relationship between Harvard and the region. SAI has offices on Harvard's campus as well as in India, Pakistan and Bangladesh. More information on SAI can be found at <http://southasiainitiative.harvard.edu/>. Professor Tarun Khanna is the faculty chair for SAI
