

CALL FOR PAPERS

Centre for Urban Economic Studies (CUES), University of Calcutta, is delighted to announce that the 40th Annual Conference of the Centre will be held on March 17, 2021.

CUES is a research centre dedicated to the study of different areas since long years back. It aims to develop cutting-edge research in all areas of urban economics, both theoretical and empirical.

The conference titled “Challenges Facing Urban Centres in the Globe in the 2020s” will focus on new directions in research and policymaking. Areas of interest include, but are not confined to:

- Urbanisation, infrastructure and crisis management,
- Understanding the interaction of fiscal, monetary and urbanisation policies,
- Rural-urban migration and problems of urban unemployment,
- Understanding new and emerging threats to urban economic stability due to COVID-19 pandemic, and
- Innovation in data analytics for urban planning.
- Urban transportation

Please note: Due to the on-going COVID-19 pandemic, this conference may be held virtually, but the dates will remain the same.

Please, submit extended abstract in 1000 words or full paper by January 30, 2021 to conference.cues.2020@gmail.com in the following structure:

Research Question: presenting the focus of the paper

Research Gap: highlighting the contribution of your work to the broader literature.

Method: clarifying the methodological approach chosen, and data source (for empirical paper).

Key Findings/Insights: explaining the findings or insights derived from your study.

Implications: stating the broader implications of the study.
